MA programme in English in Poland

This can be your ELLDorado if...

- you have finished your first university degree and want to plunge deeper into the fascinating world of languages and linguistics;
- you want to learn about up-to-date methods and tools in documenting and analysing spoken and written language;
- you are interested in linguistic fieldwork and exploring lesser known languages and varieties;
- you like studying in international student groups and want to combine theoretical knowledge with practical applications;
- you want to know how to build a corpus, how to make an online-dictionary, how to help revitalize an endangered language, or how to manage multilingualism in society.

In 2016, the Faculty of Modern Languages and Literatures at Adam Mickiewicz University in Poznań will begin an MA programme in Empirical Linguistics and Language Documentation. It will provide students with the knowledge and skills necessary for documenting languages according to 21st century standards and familiarize them with research methods in empirical linguistics and their practical application in various fields.
